The Pianola-Piano

*For this instrument succeeds—as no other ever has—in enabling the music lover who is not a musician to produce music for himself; to have music when he wants and needs it; to put into his playing his own feelings and emotions, and thus to get from music all that it has to give.

But Avoid This Mistake

Do not lose a great share of this new world of pleasure by supposing that any player piano will do. Only one instru-ment of this type has the endorsement of the world's great musicians. Only one gives you all of music's delight. This is the Pianola Piano. The difference in your pleasure is very great. The difference in cost is slight. Prove this beforeinstead of after-your purchase.

of talk. Attitude records, of which no man has yet dreamed, form the chief incentive. While it is not an open secret, still in select circles, that is, among those who are really interested in a wistion, it is declared that many otherwise peaceful citizens are properly inoculated with aviation serum and stand ready, at a moment's notice, to build hangars and take a flight.

An Aero Club in Richmond would prove of vast interest. Since the advent of Raiph Johnstone, whose unfortunate end has been reported, the art of manipulating the heavier than air machines has been discussed on many local street corners. Devotees of the art of high flying may be found in every walk of life. There are many who hope that the new club may be formed to a stroke of appoplexy in New York on Monday afternoon. Frank Grimaldi had made books on every track in the United States. He is a Richmond boy, and visited his home city regularly. He was highly regarded by those who knew him, and his death will mean the absence from the ractrack of a man well known.

owners of the local baseball team are lukewarm and that there is a possibility of this franchise being transferred to Portsmouth for the 1911 season has no foundation in fact, for the owners of this franchise are not "lukewarm" and they are satisfied that if they can get a team that they will get the crowds in 1911.

The local association, regardless of this report, is very busy just now in casting about for a pilot for next season. Several experienced men are under consideration, and it is believed this will be settled before the lapse of another ten days. President Wilninson has been in correspondence with a number of good men, and as soon as he is ready the association will go over the entire situation with him, and after this the selection will be made known. While no official statement has been given out in the premises, it is generally believed by the fans that the association is not considering Dick Smith, who managed the 1912 team, for the managership again. It is apparent that the officials believe a change must be made. The fact that a number of other men are being considered would seem in itself to preclude the release of Smith.

seem in itself to preclude the release of Smith There is no doubt but the local association will live inside the $1,200 salary limit next season, for this means the future of the game in at least four of the towns of the circuit, and President Williams, in enforcing the limit, will find plenty of co-operators here in the future. Last year the team went up as high as $2,100 a month on a $1,700 limit, and this cost the association something like $2,500. Had the limit been lived inside, even with an unpopular and losing team, the association would have gone through the season with a small margin to the credit of the association, instead of heavy losses. Lynchburg is on solid footing and will be in the Virginia League as long as its lasts.

Virginia started its football season this year with only one varsity manCaptain Geyer—in the line-up, and minus the services of such players as Stanton, Yancey, Elliott and Thraves. Next fall it will have a half dozen or more members of this year's elevan to form a nucleus of a team, with which is hopes to defeat Georgetown and, if possible, humble the Indians, Four members of this year's eleven have either served their four years or will be lost by graduation. Geyer, Honsiker and Holladay have played their last game under the four-year rule, while Cecil will in all probability receive his degree from the engineering school.
